

Deaf-friendly family activities

Here are some engaging and inclusive games and activities for families with children who are deaf or hard of hearing. These activities promote communication, social interaction, and fun for everyone involved. Remember to choose activities where you can incorporate visual cues and other adjustments, such as sitting in a circle and minimising background noise.

1. Sign language bingo
2. Silent charades
3. Story time with signing
4. Scavenger hunt
5. Visual Simon Says
6. Art and craft time
7. Deaf-friendly board or card games
8. Interactive video games with subtitles
9. Musical chairs
10. Family cooking time
11. Relay races
12. Obstacle course
13. Old favourites like hide & seek, tag, follow-the-leader, dressing-up and fort-building.

A description on how to play each game, the benefits, and additional tips are on our website - see first link.

These suggestions aim to create an inclusive environment where all family members can enjoy and learn together, fostering communication and bonding through fun activities.
